

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

Nor was St. David without his due solemnities even in the North Riding of Yorkshire, where at the house of the Rev. W. Morgan, of Bradford, the Welsh clergy of that part of the county had their second annual meeting in honour of the occasion. The day was spent in a rational and patriotic manner, it having been devoted to the discussion of subjects connected with the language and literature of Wales.

Such an example as this is well worthy of emulation; and we sincerely wish it were in our power to induce Welsh gentlemen of education, in other parts of the kingdom, and especially the clergy, thus to unite to keep alive that amor patriæ, which, without some fostering care, is too apt to be extinguished. And, we would observe (if, indeed, by so doing, we can avoid the imputation of a bull), that their very separation from Wales ought, in reality, "to bind them to their native mountains more."

CHURCH UNION SOCIETY:

IN THE DIOCESE OF ST. DAVIDS.

THE Society's Subjects for Premiums for the year 1822, are as follow; and our readers will duly appreciate the patriotic attention which is therein paid to the cultivation of the Welsh tongue.

I. A Premium of Fifty Pounds (by benefaction) for the best Essay "On the Limits of Reason in judging of Subjects of Revelation."

II. A Premium of Five Pounds for the best Sermon, in Welsh, on "Holiness, without which no Man shall see the Lord." Heb. xii. 14.

III. A Premium of Five Pounds for the best Sermon, in English, on Rom. ii. 6, 7, "Who will render to every man according to his deeds: to them who by patient continuance in well doing seek for glory, and honour, and immortality, eternal life."

IV. A Premium of Two Pounds for the best Welsh Translation of a small Tract, entitled "The Way to be Happy."

Literary Announcements.

CYVRINACH Y BEIRDD.—This work, in consequence of the Editor being desirous of rendering it as complete as possible, will not be ready for publication as soon as was expected.